

Senior Snippets

Thursday, January 15 - Day Four 2009

At last! Snippets are back!

Breaking News - CB from NSW Men's 40s team is finally "Over the Hill" today. Congratulations, Craig! Happy 40th Birthday.

There was the story that "hit the streets" on Tuesday that a Victorian couple had all their team tennis clothing stolen off the clothes line, including the lady's bra and best knickers. On Wednesday, it turned up! Seems someone had accidentally taken it in as part of their own! Whew - they were a very relieved couple, (MA & RA).

Who was the 45s lady who has a new "GPS" system, and got to tennis late, because she couldn't understand its instructions! No names, no pack drill. (She must be blonde!)

Then there was the carpark attendant, DY, who was found "asleep on the job" - he says it was hot and he was tired from a big night on Monday night, plus, "there was nothing happening."

SA had a huge number of players at their State Dinner, 150 or so. The ladies from Riverland had prepared an excellent presentation which included dressing up as the 7 Dwarves. Their heads were covered by HUGE hats, and eyes were drawn on their tummies, with appropriate clothing fitting their lower body. They sang and danced around for a significant amount of time, getting great applause and accolades for their efforts. (Who ended up with some of Snow White's feathers?)

With 30-odd teams performing, players all enjoyed what turned out to be a very long night!!!

Who was it at the NSW Dinner who participated in a "belly dance" routine? There were a few "not-so-stunning" hairy chests being exposed! It's been hinted that more than one of these performers came from the lovely township of Dubbo.

Congratulations to Carl Anjou, who was awarded LIFE MEMBERSHIP of Tennis Seniors Australia at the AGM last night. Carl has devoted over 20 years to Seniors, having been a member since 1985.

Tom Hancy was elected to the position of Secretary, congratulations, Tom.
